

DLA Piper Global Women's Leadership Summit

Hillary Sale

Associate Dean for Strategy
Agnes Williams Sesquicentennial Professor of Law
Professor of Management
Georgetown University

Hillary A. Sale is an influential business leader and consultant as well as a recognized expert in financial services, ESG, securities, crisis management, compliance, corporate governance, strategy, and leadership. She has been a member of the FINRA Board of Governors since 2016, where she Chairs the Regulatory Policy Committee and serves on the Executive, Nominating and Governance, Compensation, and Regulatory Operations Committees. She is also a member of the Advisory Board of Foundation Press, an educational publisher of scholarly books, is a faculty member with the National Association of Corporate Directors (NACD) and speaks and works with boards across the country, and is a member the board of DirectWomen, a prestigious organization successfully increasing the presence of women on public company boards. Ms. Sale is also the Chair of the DirectWomen Board Institute and serves on DirectWomen's Executive and Nominating and Governance Committees.

Ms. Sale is the Associate Dean for Strategy, the Agnes Williams Sesquicentennial Professor of Law, and a Professor of Management at Georgetown University. As an award-winning scholar and industry-focused academic, she writes and speaks about corporate governance, ESG, securities, compliance, strategy, and leadership. In the spring of 2017, she was the Sullivan & Cromwell Visiting Professor of Law at Harvard Law School, teaching Corporate Boards and Governance and Leadership.

She is an accomplished business partner who speaks to industry groups and academic audiences and was selected by the St. Louis Business Journal as a "2014 Most Influential Business Woman." In addition to running governance and leadership programs, Ms. Sale consults regularly with CEOs, C-suite executives, and boards on governance, strategy, ESG, inclusion and diversity, company culture, and compliance. She also works with business leaders in both custom executive education programs and programs at Harvard Law, where she Chairs the Women's Leadership Initiative, and at Georgetown's McDonough School of Business and the Law Center.

Ms. Sale graduated magna cum laude from Harvard Law School and holds a master's degree in Economics from Boston University, where she also completed her BA, summa cum laude. Before joining the Georgetown faculty, she was the Walter D. Coles Professor of Law and a Professor of Management at Washington University in St. Louis. Prior to becoming a board director and industry-focused academic, Ms. Sale worked in the Government Investigations and Corporate and Securities Class Actions areas at an international law firm and in Massachusetts politics.

www.dlapiperwomenssummit.com